The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the combination of applicant's admitted prior art and Mazed (20020028390).

In the specification, at paragraph 50, applicant discloses as conventional all of the limitations of the claims, including a coating, but does not appear to disclose the particular claimed coating.

Nevertheless, at paragraph 122 and claim 42, Mazed discloses the particular claimed coating, "tantalum oxide" and "aluminum oxide." Moreover, it would have been obvious to combine this disclosure of Mazed with the disclosure of the admitted prior art because it would enhance the reliability and lifetime of the device of the admitted prior art.

To further clarify, the coating of the combination of applicant's admitted prior art and Mazed inherently shows anti-reflection characteristics at said predetermined wavelength.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the combination of Yoshida (20020163948) and Mazed (20020028390).

At paragraphs 58 and 59, Yoshida discloses all of the limitations of the claims, including a coating 15, but does not appear to disclose the particular claimed coating.

Nevertheless, at paragraph 122 and claim 42, Mazed discloses the particular claimed coating, "tantalum oxide" and "aluminum oxide." Moreover, it would have been obvious to combine this disclosure of Mazed with the disclosure Yoshida because it would enhance the reliability and lifetime of the device of Yoshida.

To further clarify, the coating of the combination of applicant's admitted prior art and Mazed inherently shows anti-reflection characteristics at said predetermined wavelength.

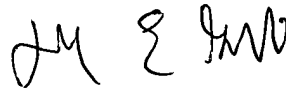

The art made of record and not applied to the rejection is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. It is cited primarily to show inventions relevant to the examination of the instant invention.
